

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY:
COGNITION AND LEARNING,
INDIVIDUAL DIFFERENCES AND MOTIVATION

JONATHON E. LARSON
EDITOR

Nova Science Publishers, Inc.
New York

CONTENTS

Preface		vii
Chapter 1	How Dyslexic Teenagers Cope at School: Could a New Measure Be Helpful in Screening those in Difficulty? Neil Alexander-Passe	1
Chapter 2	Interest and Motivation: A Cultural-Historical and Discursive Psychological Approach Wolff-Michael Roth and Pei-Ling Hsu	81
Chapter 3	Reading Fluency and Dyslexia: Innovative Developments in the Role of Associative Learning and Repetitive Exposure in Skill Acquisition Sebastián Aravena and Jurgen Tijms	113
Chapter 4	Cultural Influences on the Learning of Science: An African Perspective Fred N. Keraro and Mark I.O. Okere	143
Chapter 5	Non-Linear Dynamic Modeling of Microdevelopmental Processes of Students' Conceptual Change in Science Li Sha and Xiufeng Liu	179
Chapter 6	Phonology, Discrepancy, Instruction and Dyslexia: Adversaries or Allies? Peter Brooks and John Everatt	205
Chapter 7	Dyslexia and Loss of the Learning Dialogue Neil Alexander-Passe and Bob Zimmer	223
Chapter 8	Cognitive Load Theory and Instructional Design: An Outline of the Theory and Reflections on a Need for New Directions to Cater for Individual Differences and Motivation Wayne Michael Leahy	243

Chapter 9	Attitude towards School, Motivation, Emotions and Academic Achievement Angelica Moè, Francesca Pazzaglia, Patrizio Tressoldi and Cristina Toso	259
Chapter 10	Individual Differences in Attitude to School and Social Reputation among Peers: Implications for Behavioural Adjustment in Educational Settings Estefanía Estévez and Nicholas Emler	275
Chapter 11	Dyslexia as a Syndrome: Don't Let 'Reading Disability' Steal the Show Tim Miles	287
Index		291