

LANGUAGE CHANGE AND VARIATION

Edited by

RALPH W. FASOLD and DEBORAH SCHIFFRIN

Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

JOHN BENJAMINS PUBLISHING COMPANY
AMSTERDAM/PHILADELPHIA

1989

Contents

Variation in Speech Communities

William Labov
The exact description of a speech community: Short a in Philadelphia	1
Malcah Yaeger-Dror
Patterned symmetry of shifting and lengthened vowels in the Montreal French Vernacular (MFV)	59
Claude Tousignant and David Sankoff
New results on Montreal French /r/	85
Ann Pitts
Is urban influence VARB-able?	95
David Sankoff , Henrietta J. Cedergren, William Kemp Pierrette Thibault and Diane Vincent
Montreal French: Language, class and ideology	107
Magnus Ljung
Social determinants of the use of English in Sweden	119

Syntactic and Morphological Change

Anthony Kroch
Function and grammar in the history of English: Periphrastic do	133
Ann Houston
The English gerund: Syntactic change and discourse function	173
Frank Anshen and Mark Aronoff
Morphological productivity, word frequency, and the Oxford English Dictionary	197

Syntactic Variation

Benji Wald
Syntactization in language development: Clause status variation	203
Michael Montgomery
Choosing between that and it	241
Fernando Tarallo
Inside and outside relative clauses: Pronominal redundancy in Portuguese	255

viii      Contents

Variation in Language Development

Ida J. Stockman and Fay Vaughn-Cooke
Addressing new questions about Black children's language	275
Walt Wolfram
Structural variability in phonological development: Final nasals in Vernacular Black English	301
Colette Dubuisson, Louisette Emirkanian and David Sankoff
The development of syntactic complexity in narrative, informative and argumentative discourse	333

Controversies and Methods in the Study of Linguistic Variation

Claire Lefebvre
Some problems in defining syntactic variables: The case of WH questions in Montreal French	351
Rajendra Singh and Alan Ford
A closer look at some so-called variable processes	367
Sven Jacobson
Some approaches to syntactic variation	381
Pascale Rousseau
A versatile program for the analysis of sociolinguistic data	395
Shana Poplack
The care and handling of a mega-corpus: The Ottawa-Hull French project	411