

Yoichi Funabashi
Editor

Japan's Population Implosion

The 50 Million Shock

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Inagawa Hidekazu
1.1	No Time to Lose	2
1.2	Four “Negative Chain Reactions”	5
1.3	A Conflict of Values	8
1.4	Book Layout	19
	References	23
2	The Greater Tokyo Shock	27
	Seta Fumihiko, Otake Hiroshi, and Umeyama Goro
2.1	“We’ll Be a Marginal Estate in Ten Years’ Time”	28
2.2	The Shrinking Metropolis	29
2.3	Vacant Houses, Marginal Apartments, Consumer Refugees	32
2.4	Communities in Collapse	36
2.5	Rising Numbers of Residents over 75 in Greater Tokyo	38
2.6	“Marginalization” Increases Even in Central Tokyo	40
2.7	Greater Osaka Becomes the World’s First Degenerating Megacity	42
2.8	Greater Nagoya’s Bottleneck—Linear Trains and Few Female Workplaces	45
2.9	Sapporo and Fukuoka Absorb Their Surrounding Populations	45
	References	47

3	A Collapse in Regional Infrastructure	51
	Igarashi Chikako, Akiyama Yuki, and Kamiya Kenichi
3.1	Expanding “Uninhabited Zones”	51
3.2	The Reality of a Shrinking Population	52
3.3	Minimum Population for Maintaining the Life Infrastructure	57
3.4	Disappearing Life Infrastructure	58
3.5	Using IT as a Means of Escape	71
3.6	Single Seniors and Isolation	72
	References	77
4	The Impact of Demographic Changes on Macroeconomic and Public Finance	79
	Oguro Kazumasa
4.1	The Key Is “Real Growth Rate per Capita”	79
4.2	The “Abenomics” Fantasy	82
4.3	Fiscal Crisis Accelerated by a Sharp Increase in Social Security Benefits	84
4.4	Responding to Increasingly Important Emerging Markets	87
4.5	The Problem Is Low Labor Productivity	88
4.6	National Savings Trends to Be Watched	90
4.7	Will a Government Bond Crash Occur?	91
	References	95
5	Demographic Policy	97
	Inagawa Hidekazu
5.1	Japanese Demographic Policy: Between “Too Much” and “Too Little”	98
5.2	Raising Children: A “Social Responsibility” or a “Personal Issue”?	100
5.3	Demographic Policy Behind the Curve	101
5.4	The Cold Realities of Childcare Support	103
5.5	Still Unresolved Policy Response on the “Foreign Workers” Issue	105
5.6	A Seclusion or Open Door Policy?	107
	References	112

6	National Land (Regional/Administrative) Policy	115
	Sunahara Yosuke, Seta Fumihiko, and Umeyama Goro
6.1	“Tokyo Overconcentration” Pronounced Since the Late 1980s	116
6.2	Prime Minister Tanaka Kakuei’s Sense of Crisis	117
6.3	Disorderly City Sprawl in Metropolitan Areas	118
6.4	Apartment “Slumification” Becomes a Reality	119
6.5	Disorderly Suburban Development Prompted by Subsidies	121
6.6	Unrealized Effects of “Decentralization Reform”	123
6.7	How to Eliminate the Risk of Overconcentration in Tokyo	126
	References	129
7	The Demographic Issue and Silver Democracy	131
	Kato Sota
7.1	“Too Little, Too Late”	131
7.2	What Led to a Postponement of the Demographic Issue	133
7.3	No Noticeable “Forces of Resistance”	134
7.4	An Absence of Strong Political Entrepreneurs	136
7.5	Former Deputy Chief Cabinet Secretary Furukawa’s Commiseration	137
7.6	Why Did Political Entrepreneurs Fail to Emerge?	138
7.7	Will the Silver Democracy Create an Intergenerational Conflict?	145
7.8	“Middle Group” Crucial for Preventing the “Tyranny of the Majority”	146
7.9	Need for “Cooperative Business with Future Generations”	148
7.10	Expectation of a “Third Baby Boom” Backfire	149
	References	151
8	Population Growth Policy and Public Finance	155
	Oguro Kazumasa
8.1	Three Ideas for Reducing Social Security Costs	156
8.2	Nine Scenarios Stemming from the Falling Birth Rate	158
8.3	Low Family-Related Spending in Japan Compared to European Countries	160

8.4	The Social Security Switch from the Elder to All Generations	161
8.5	“Four Challenges” Holding the Key to Birth-Rate Recovery	164
8.6	The Crux Is Japanese Workers’ Compensation	165
8.7	Connecting Internationalization to Growth	167
	References	170
9	Optimum Population/Land Relocation: Area Management—Crisis Management	173
	Sunahara Yosuke, Seta Fumihiko, and Umeyama Goro
9.1	The Long-Term Perspectives to Realize the “Compact City”	174
9.2	Need for “Wide-Area Cooperation” and “Local Political Reform”	179
9.3	Considering the Minimum Line for Population Density	184
9.4	Medium-Sized Cities as “Population Reservoirs”	186
9.5	Seeking a Revival in Community	188
9.6	Policy Measures for the Worst Scenario	191
	References	195
10	Countering Falling Regional Population with Business	197
	Matsuda Kiyoto, Arai Junji, and Nagao Takashi
10.1	Komatsu: Aiming to Balance Work and Childcare	198
10.2	Shonai Bank: A Producer for Regional Development	199
10.3	Hirata Farm: Public-Spirited Support of Infrastructure	200
10.4	Kitakyushu Yamorisha: Private Sector-Led Town Revitalization	201
10.5	Nakamura Brace Co., Ltd.: An Innovation Firm That Attracts Young People Even to the Countryside	202
10.6	Saku Central Hospital: Local Preventive Medicine	203
10.7	Data Horizon: IT-Based Health Management	204
10.8	Niseko Town, Hokkaido: A Town Luring Overseas Talent	205
10.9	Naoshima, Kagawa Prefecture: An Island Where 100 Times the Number of Residents Visit	206
10.10	Sabae City, Fukui Prefecture: Residents Change the Town	207

10.11	Toyama City: Chosen Town Development	208
10.12	Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University: Oita's International City	209
10.13	Fukuoka City: The Women's Choice	210
10.14	Summary: Leveraging Private Sector Power for the Falling Population Issue	210
	References	214
11	Policy Proposals	217
11.1	Policies	217
11.2	Creating a Policy Environment	224
	References	227
	Index	229