

George Mousourakis

Roman Law and the Origins of the Civil Law Tradition

 Springer

Contents

1	The Historical and Constitutional Context of Roman Law: A Brief Overview	1
1.1	Divisions of Roman Constitutional and Legal History	1
1.2	The Archaic Period (Monarchy and Early Republic)	4
1.2.1	General Historical Background	4
1.2.2	The Constitutional Framework	5
1.3	The Pre-classical Period (Late Republic)	11
1.3.1	General Historical Background	11
1.3.2	The Constitutional Framework	13
1.4	The Classical Period (Early Empire or Principate)	14
1.4.1	General Historical Background	14
1.4.2	The Constitutional Framework	16
1.5	The Post-classical Period (Late Empire or Dominate)	20
1.5.1	General Historical Background	20
1.5.2	The Constitutional Framework	23
1.6	The Reign of Justinian (AD 527–565)	25
1.6.1	General Historical Background	25
1.6.2	The Constitutional Framework	26
2	The Sources of Roman Law	27
2.1	Introductory	27
2.2	Sources of Law in the Archaic Age	29
2.2.1	Customary Law and the Leges Regiae	29
2.2.2	The Law of the Twelve Tables and the Growth of Statutory Law	32
2.2.3	The Pontiffs and the Beginnings of Jurisprudence	40
2.3	Sources of Law in the Late Republic	43
2.3.1	Legislation	43
2.3.2	The Rise of Magisterial Law	45
2.3.3	The Jurists of the Late Republic	55
2.3.4	The Role of Custom	61

2.4	Sources of Law in the Principate Era	61
2.4.1	The Decline of Popular Law-Making	61
2.4.2	The Consolidation of Magisterial Law	63
2.4.3	The Senatorial Resolutions as a Source of Law	64
2.4.4	The Princes as a Lawmaker	65
2.4.5	The Culmination of Roman Jurisprudence	70
2.4.6	The Influence of Customary Law	83
2.5	Sources of Law in the Later Imperial Era	84
2.5.1	The Development of Imperial Law-Making	84
2.5.2	The Law of the Jurists	86
2.5.3	Custom and the Growth of ‘Vulgar Law’	92
3	The Private Law	95
3.1	Introduction	95
3.2	The Law of Persons	97
3.2.1	Status Libertatis	98
3.2.2	Status Civitatis	101
3.2.3	Status Familiae	102
3.2.4	Capitis Deminutio	105
3.2.5	Marriage	105
3.2.6	Guardianship and Curatorship	110
3.3	The Law of Property	113
3.3.1	Classification of Things	114
3.3.2	Ownership	115
3.3.3	Possession	124
3.4	The Law of Obligations	126
3.4.1	The Law of Contracts	128
3.4.2	The Law of Delicts	143
3.5	The Law of Succession	149
3.5.1	Intestate Succession	150
3.5.2	Testamentary Succession	151
3.6	The Law of Actions	154
3.6.1	The Legis Actio Procedure	155
3.6.2	The Formulary Procedure	155
3.6.3	The Cognitio Procedure	157
4	Criminal Law and Criminal Justice	159
4.1	Introduction	159
4.2	Crime and Criminal Justice in the Archaic Era	160
4.3	The Development of Criminal Justice in the Late Republic	164
4.3.1	The Permanent Jury Courts	166
4.4	The Administration of Criminal Justice in the Principate Age	173
4.4.1	The Criminal Jurisdiction of the Senate	175
4.4.2	Imperial Jurisdiction	175
4.4.3	Criminal Offences, Responsibility and Punishment	178

4.5	Crime and Criminal Justice in the Dominate Period	182
4.5.1	The Court System	183
4.5.2	The Criminal Justice Process	185
4.5.3	Judicial Protection of the Lower Classes	190
5	The Codification of Roman Law	193
5.1	Introduction	193
5.1.1	Early Codifications	193
5.2	The Theodosian Code	195
5.3	The Germanic Codes of Roman Law	196
5.4	The Codification of Justinian	198
5.4.1	Introductory	198
5.4.2	The First Code	199
5.4.3	The Digest or Pandects	200
5.4.4	The Institutes	205
5.4.5	The Second Code	207
5.4.6	The Novels	208
5.4.7	The Corpus Iuris Civilis	210
5.4.8	Concluding Note	210
6	Roman Law and Byzantine Imperial Legislation	213
6.1	The Historical Context of Byzantine Law	213
6.2	Sources of Byzantine Law	215
6.2.1	Legal Development from the End of Justinian’s Reign to the Accession of Basil I the Macedonian	217
6.2.2	Legal Development Under the Macedonian Dynasty	222
6.2.3	Legal Development in the Late Byzantine Age	227
6.3	The Influence of Byzantine Law	230
7	The Survival and Resurgence of Roman Law in Western Europe	233
7.1	The Historical Background	233
7.2	Roman Law the Early Middle Ages	240
7.3	The Revival of Roman Law	243
7.3.1	The Glossators	246
7.3.2	The Commentators	250
7.4	The Development of Canon Law	254
7.5	The Growth of Commercial Law	257
7.6	Feudal Law	258
7.7	The Reception of Roman Law	260
7.7.1	The Reception of Roman Law in France	262
7.7.2	The Reception of Roman Law in Germany	265
7.7.3	The Ius Commune in Italy, the Iberian Peninsula and the Netherlands	268
7.7.4	The Influence of Roman Law in Britain	272
7.8	The Humanist Movement	277
7.9	The School of Natural Law	280

- 8 Codification and the Rise of Modern Civil Law 287
 - 8.1 The Codification Movement 287
 - 8.1.1 The Codification of Civil Law in France 288
 - 8.1.2 The Codification of Civil Law in Germany 290
 - 8.2 The Civil Law Tradition 296
 - 8.2.1 Geographic Distribution of the Civil Law 297
 - 8.2.2 Defining Characteristics of Civil Law Systems 302
 - 8.2.3 Concluding Remarks 308
- Select Bibliography 311
- Index 315