How and What Marketing Algorithms Think

By

Roberto Brognara

Cambridge
Scholars
Publishing

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface vii

Introduction 1

1. Automation in marketing: from datum to Big Data 13
   1. Data culture 14
   2. Types of data 18
   3. Types of software 21
   4. Types of activities 24

2. Digital environments and the eco-system of programmatic marketing ... 29

3. How marketing algorithms think 54
   1. Marketing algorithms and their context 57
   2. Effectiveness, objectives and results 63
   3. Bubble filtering 65
   4. Genius loci 69
   5. Opacity 72
   6. Human errors and algorithmic persistence 74
   7. Cost Reduction 80
   8. Inertial masses 82
   9. Populist tendencies 85
   10. Marketing algorithms: profile traits 87

4. What the marketing algorithms think: case studies 89
   1. Google (and the consumer mindset) 90
   2. Amazon (up-selling and cross-selling) 98
   3. Facebook (audience aggregation and targeting) 107
   4. Ryanair (and dynamic pricing) 116
   5. Netflix (and recommendations) 121
   6. Salesforce (and relationship management) 129
   7. Programmatic advertising (and efficiency in media planning) ... 135
   8. Chatbots (and personal assistance) 137
   9. Branded algorithms (and marketing effectiveness) 142

5. The evolution of marketing algorithms 145

Bibliography 152