

Anders Örtenblad
Editor

Professionalizing Leadership

Debating Education, Certification and Practice

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

|                |  |    |
|----------------|--|----|
| Part I  | Introduction  | 1  |
| 1       | Background and Introduction: Leadership as a Profession and as the Main Theme on Bachelor ProgramsAnders Örténblad | 3  |
| 2       | What Is a Profession, and What Are the Prerequisites for Being a Profession?Jill Beth Otterlei                     | 31 |
| Part II | Against Leadership as a Profession  | 45 |
|                | Section A. Is Not a Profession  |    |
| 3       | How and Why Management Has Not Become a ProfessionHaldor Byrkjeflot and Pål Nygaard                                | 49 |

Section B. Can Not Become a Profession

- 4 Management as a Profession: The Historian's Perspective 71
Susanna Fellman
- 5 The Professional Leader: Man of Many Talents or Jack of All Trades? Five Questions About Professional Leadership 87
Leif-Kristian Monsen
- 6 Leadership as a Profession: A Special Case Dependent on Organizational Ownership, Governance, Mission and Vision 109
Peter Davis
- 7 Can Leadership Become a Profession? 125
Frederik Hertel and Michael Fast

Section C. Should Not Become a Profession

- 8 Against Professionalizing Leadership: The Roles of Self-Formation and Practical Wisdom in Leadership 143
Kenneth Mølbjerg Jørgensen and Marita Svane
- 9 The Case for Behavioral Professionalism in Leadership 161
C. Ken Weidner II
- 10 Professionalizing Political Leaders: Is This the Cure? Lessons from Political Theory 181
Hans Petter Saxi

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| Part III In Between For and Against Leadership as a Profession  | 197 |
| 11 The Future of Management: Global Trends and Possible Scenarios of Development of Managerial ProfessionAlexandra Moskovskaya             | 199 |
| 12 Management/Leadership: Profession, Professional, ProfessionalizationRikke Kristine Nielsen, Thomas Duus Henriksen, and Kenneth Børgesen | 219 |
| Part IV For Leadership as a Profession  | 235 |
| Section A. Is Already a Profession   |            |
| 13 Leadership, Management, and the Common GoodDavid Lutz   | 239 |
| 14 Management Can Be Considered as a ProfessionVictor J. Delacruz  | 251 |
| Section B. Should but Can Not Become a Profession   |            |
| 15 The Professionalization of Medical Management? The Slow and Chequered Case of UK Health CareEwan Ferlie                                 | 277 |

Section C. Can and Should Become a Profession

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| 16 Leadership as a Profession: The Need for an Authentic Jurisdiction  | 295 |
| Kelly C. Jordan  |     |
| 17 Should Leadership Be Considered a Profession?   | 313 |
| Grace Wangui Kinyanjui   |     |
| 18 Leadership as a Profession? The Significance of Reflexive Judgment  | 333 |
| Lone Hersted and Mette Vinther Larsen  |     |
| 19 Preparing for Turning Leadership into a True Profession   | 349 |
| Anders Örtenblad   |     |
| Part V On the Need for Bachelor Programs in Leadership   | 359 |
| 20 Bachelor Programs in Leadership: The Beginning of a Profession  | 361 |
| Allan Næs Gjerding, Kenneth Mølbjerg Jørgensen, René Nesgaard Nielsen, and Jørgen Gulddahl Rasmussen   |     |
| 21 “As the Twig Is Bent, so the Tree Shall Grow”: Developing Strategic Intuition Through Reflective Practices in Bachelor Programs in Leadership Studies | 369 |
| G. K. Cunningham and Richard M. Meinhart   |     |
| 22 Yes, We Should Develop New Action-Learning-Based Bachelor Programs in Leadership  | 377 |
| Daniel Belet   |     |

|           |   |            |
|-----------|---|------------|
| 23 | The Need to Consider the Context When Offering Bachelor Programs in Leadership | 385 |
|           | Andrew Bolt and Pandora Rupert Bolt  |            |
| 24 | How a Bachelor in Leadership Would Fill a Gap                                  | 393 |
|           | Kenneth Børgesen, Rikke Kristine Nielsen, and Thomas Duus Henriksen            |            |
| 25 | Why Universities Should Give Bachelor Programs in Leadership                   | 403 |
|           | Anders Örtenblad   |            |
|           | Index  | 409 |