

SUCCESS ON YOUR CERTIFICATE COURSE IN ENGLISH LANGUAGE TEACHING

A GUIDE TO BECOMING A TEACHER IN ELT/TESOL

Caroline Brandt

SAGE

Success on Your Certificate Course in English Language Teaching

A Guide to Becoming a Teacher in ELT/TESOL

Caroline Brandt

 SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Chapter 1: Setting the scene	1
English Language Teaching	1
Who this book is for	2
Why do people take ELT/TESOL certificate courses?	2
The aims of this book	3
to clarify the field of ELT/TESOL	3
to enable you to identify a good certificate course	3
to help you to succeed on your certificate course	4
to help you prepare for employment in ELT/TESOL	5
About the author	5
Using this book	6
Chapter 2: Introducing English Language Teaching	8
ELT, TESOL, EFL? A look at the language	8
the profession	9
the people	11
the language	12
ELT as a profession	13
English as a medium of instruction	13
The scope of ELT	14
Linguistics, Applied Linguistics and ELT	16
Snapshots of a career in ELT	16
What kind of people go into ELT?	19
Is ELT for you?	20
‘But I’m not a native speaker ...’	22
‘I don’t know the first thing about grammar ...’	23
Introducing English Language Teaching: Key points to take away with you	25
Chapter 3: Becoming qualified	26
Why should you become qualified?	26
The development of initial English language teacher training	28
A quality qualification	29

validation	31
supervised teaching practice and guided observation	33
recognition and reputation	33
centre staff, facilities and procedures	34
course selection criteria and process: a summary	36
Taking a certificate course: some alternatives	37
full-time courses	38
part-time courses	40
other ways of taking a certificate course	42
Becoming qualified: Key points to take away with you	43
Chapter 4: Knowing your certificate course	44
Why certificate courses are as they are	44
standardization	45
syllabus statements	46
the CELTA, CertTESOL and TESOL Certificate: some similarities	49
the CELTA and CertTESOL: some differences	50
course components	51
a three-way learning opportunity	52
The syllabus in action	53
input	54
supervised teaching practice	55
lesson planning	57
feedback	57
guided observation	58
written assignments	61
assessment: what to expect	62
Knowing your certificate course: Key points to take away with you	63
Chapter 5: Getting started	64
ONYOUR MARKS: applying for a place	64
snapshot of the application stage	65
completing an application form	66
learning from pre-course tasks	68
examples of pre-course tasks	69
pre-course task strategies	75
the interview	76
seven steps to interview success	78
GET SET: pre-course preparations	79
GO: first days	81
snapshot of early days	82
Getting started: Key points to take away with you	85

Chapter 6: Learning	86
Workshops	86
an example workshop schedule	86
the foreign language lesson	88
Observing	91
peer observation	92
observing experienced teachers	93
observation tasks	94
Written assignments	98
four assignments	98
‘Lessons from the classroom’: an example of a completed assignment	103
tackling written assignments	106
your ten-point plan for tackling written assignments	109
A time for all things	109
the course as springboard	110
learning opportunity or learning support?	111
organize yourself: the personal planner	112
Learning: Key points to take away with you	114
 Chapter 7: Teaching	 115
Teaching practice	115
teaching practice points	116
lesson planning	119
making steady progress	123
managing performance nerves	124
practising, not performing	126
your essentials for teaching practice survival	127
Giving and receiving feedback	130
your guiding principles for effective feedback	135
Teaching: Key points to take away with you	140
 Chapter 8: Working together	 142
Working with language learners	142
monolingual and multilingual classes	143
proficiency and level	144
what levels mean for you	145
the influence of a learner’s first language	147
Working with fellow participants	147
ways of working	148
collaboration matters	148
your teaching team performance plan	151
when teams go wrong	154

if your team needs help ...	156
Working together: Key points to take away with you	158
Chapter 9: Succeeding	160
Introduction	160
using the sixteen strategies for certificate success	160
Sixteen strategies for certificate success	162
Succeeding: Key points to take away with you	193
Chapter 10: Being qualified	196
Early days in the life of a teacher in ELT/TESOL	196
The job hunt: issues and strategies	198
A viable position with a reputable employer	203
Your new teaching job: how to survive the first weeks	207
Continuing to learn	212
Being qualified: Key points to take away with you	217
References	221
Index	225

Acknowledgements

Many people contributed towards the research on which this book is based.

I owe my greatest debt to the numerous course participants and tutors around the world who provided me with frank descriptions of their experiences of English Language Teaching certificate courses. I am particularly grateful to Rod Pryde, Regional Director of the British Council in India and Sri Lanka, for his support and enthusiasm for the project during its early phase. The research would also not have been possible without the encouragement and scholarly guidance of Dr Rob McBride, former Director of International Education, School of Education, University of East Anglia, United Kingdom.

I would also like to thank the following colleagues and friends for their critique, clarifications, and contributions:

David Bowker, University of Paisley, United Kingdom; Professor Christopher Dixon, Abu Dhabi University, United Arab Emirates; Tamsin Haggis, University of Stirling, United Kingdom; Rachel Launay, British Council, United Kingdom; Vicky McWilliam, St Giles College, United Kingdom; Professor David Prescott, University Of Brunei, Brunei Darussalam; Patricia Prescott, University of Brunei, Brunei Darussalam; Jenny Pugsley, Trinity College London, United Kingdom; Alison Standring, London School of Economics, United Kingdom; Lyn Strutt, former teacher and CELTA tutor, British Council; and Steve Tait, American University Alumni Language Center, Thailand.

On the publishing side, I would particularly like to thank Helen Fairlie, SAGE Publications, United Kingdom, for her tireless advice and criticism, in the most useful sense of the word, of successive chapter drafts; Jeanette Graham, for managing the production; Lyn Strutt, for painstakingly editing the manuscript, and ensuring that our friendship survived the process; and Sarah Wimperis, of Sarah Wimperis Illustrations, for adding a light touch with her amusing cartoons.

These acknowledgments would not be complete without mention of my daughters Zoë, Ellie and Jessica. Their interest in the project, and all their questions about it, were at once thought-provoking and motivating.

All of the above have helped to make this a better book.

Except in a few cases where full names are supplied, pseudonyms have been used throughout.

You will find a printable glossary of key abbreviations and terms used in this book on the companion website www.oup.com/9780191000000. Words that are included in the glossary are printed in bold when they are first used in this book.