

Complex Adaptive Leadership

Embracing Paradox and Uncertainty

SECOND EDITION

NICK OBOLENSKY

GOWER

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Reviews of Complex Adaptive Leadership	xiii
Preface to the Second Edition	xvii
Preface to the First Edition: What's This All About?	xix

PART I THE CONTEXT

Chapter 1	A Journey of Discovery	3
Chapter 2	The World Wide Context – A Flow Towards Polyarchy	11
Chapter 3	The Organisational Context – Evolve or Die	21
Chapter 4	Finita La Comedia – Stop Playing Charades	35
A Quick Breather between Parts I and II		45

PART II CHAOS AND COMPLEXITY

Chapter 5	Order in Chaos, Simplicity in Complexity – The Deeper Paradox	51
Chapter 6	Getting to Grips with Chaos and Complexity	99
Chapter 7	Getting Chaos and Complexity to Work	107
A Quick Breather between Parts II and III		139

PART III THE LEADERSHIP ANGLE

Chapter 8	What is Leadership Anyway?	143
Chapter 9	What About the Followers?	155
Chapter 10	Complex Adaptive Leadership in Action	165
A Final Breather between Parts III and IV		187

PART IV      LOOKING FORWARD AND OTHER INTERESTS

Chapter 11	Beyond This Book – the Choices You Have ...	191
	Appendix A: The Insights of Tao and Buffalo Maps	195
	Appendix B: Polyarchy and Leadership Models	201
	Appendix C: Polyarchy and the Relevance to Modern Political Leadership	209
	Appendix D: Leadership Development	227
	Bibliography	233
	Index	243

List of Figures

Figure P.1	The levels of Complex Adaptive Leadership	xviii
Figure 1.1	Underlying dynamics of polyarchy	4
Figure 1.2	The power of Yin/Yang opposites	7
Figure 2.1	Unprecedented pace of changing times	13
Figure 2.2	An explosion of knowledge	15
Figure 2.3	The more we know, the less certain things are	16
Figure 2.4	The greatest discontinuity of leadership assumption	18
Figure 2.5	The flow and atomisation of power	19
Figure 3.1	From chimneys to Complex Adaptive System via the matrix	22
Figure 3.2	Moving from machine to organism	27
Figure 3.3	Possible evolution of personal feedback within an organisation	29
Figure 3.4	Possible evolution of how strategy is set in an organisation	30
Figure 3.5	Two different approaches to strategy	32
Figure 4.1	Where do the solutions come from? (part 1)	36
Figure 4.2	Where do the solutions come from? (part 2)	37
Figure 4.3	Breaking the charade via challenge and support	41
Figure 4.4	A more dynamic Q&A session	42
Figure 4.5	Skills needed in polyarchy vs. oligarchy – an example	42
Figure B1.1	Knowledge and technology drive each other	47
Figure 5.1	The four states on a continuum	55
Figure 5.2	The unknown/known matrix	56
Figure 5.3	Yin/Yang – chaos and order	57
Figure 5.4	The flow towards chaos and uncertainty	59
Figure 5.5	Young's amazing double slit experiment – part 1	65
Figure 5.6	Young's amazing double slit experiment – part 2	65
Figure 5.7	Young's amazing double slit experiment – part 3	66
Figure 5.8	Example of phase space	69
Figure 5.9	Examples of attractors	69
Figure 5.10	The butterfly effect	71
Figure 5.11	Where do catalytic mechanisms fit?	73
Figure 5.12	Fractal geometry and Mandelbrot set	76
Figure 5.13	Koch snowflake – example of a fractal	76
Figure 5.14	Sierpinski gasket – 1	77
Figure 5.15	Sierpinski gasket – 2	77

Figure 5.16	Sierpinski Gasket – 3	78
Figure 5.17	The beginnings of ‘The Chaos Game’	78
Figure 5.18	Order out of chaos ...	79
Figure 5.19	Fractal Thinking	80
Figure 5.20	Fractal resonance of Science and Leadership Theory	82
Figure 5.21	Examples of bifurcation points	83
Figure 5.23	Buttons and threads experiment	84
Figure 5.22	Buttons experiment	84
Figure 5.24	Call centre result	88
Figure 5.25	The more connection points, the more the complexity	91
Figure 5.26	Exponential complexity	92
Figure 5.27	Boltzmann thought experiment on complexity	93
Figure 5.28	Post-normal science when stakes and complexity are high	95
Figure 6.1	Network of relationships is key	104
Figure 6.2	Yin/Yang and the Four + Four model for leading complexity	105
Figure 7.1	Exercising polyarchy	109
Figure 7.2	Four + Four principles	110
Figure 7.3	Examples of purpose	111
Figure 7.4	Framework for success	115
Figure 7.5	Barriers for leaders and followers	117
Figure 7.6	The what, who and how of strategy	121
Figure 7.7	Examples of skills needed	124
Figure 7.8	Motivational states of being	125
Figure 7.9	Skill/will matrix	126
Figure 7.10	Introduction of 360 degree feedback – possible steps	131
Figure 7.11	Four + Four dynamic	132
Figure 7.12	Yin/Yang of the Four + Four	132
Figure 7.13	Interdependencies of the Four + Four principle	133
Figure 7.14	Companies with High CAL Principles	135
Figure 7.15	Research on project performance and CAL principles	136
Figure B2.1	Paradoxical principles of Four + Four model	140
Figure 8.1	Leadership vs. management – take 1	143
Figure 8.2	Leadership vs. management – take 2	145
Figure 8.3	Leadership vs. management – take 3	146
Figure 8.4	Hersey/Blanchard Situational Leadership model (adapted)	147
Figure 8.5	Situational Leadership (adapted) with Goleman’s approach	149
Figure 8.6	Average score distribution of the Situational Leadership model (adapted)	150
Figure 8.7	Leadership Styles	150
Figure 8.8	Eisenhower matrix (adapted) – typical time profile for executives	152
Figure 8.9	The stress of leadership	152

Figure 9.1	Skill/will matrix	157
Figure 9.2	'Level 5' followership	159
Figure 9.3	Behaviour breeds behaviour	160
Figure 9.4	Moving people towards level 5	161
Figure 9.5	A typical vicious circle for leaders	162
Figure 10.1	Complex Adaptive Leadership model – basis	170
Figure 10.2	Leader as a traditional leader – either tells or sells	171
Figure 10.3	The leader as a 'follower'	172
Figure 10.4	Differing types of effort for the strategies	173
Figure 10.5	Leadership roadmap and Yin/Yang	173
Figure 10.6	Skill/will possible strategy	174
Figure 10.7	Skill/will and leadership strategies	174
Figure 10.8	Point attractor towards self-organisation	177
Figure 10.9	Periodic attractor for improvement	178
Figure 10.10	Point attractor towards transcended state	178
Figure 10.11	Periodic attractor within state of change	179
Figure 10.12	Coaching attractor of Sell and Involve	180
Figure 10.13	GROW model example questions	180
Figure 10.14	Types of questions that can be used with GROW coaching	181
Figure 10.15	Coaching attractor linked to questioning technique	182
Figure 10.16	Directive attractor of Tell and Sell	183
Figure 10.17	Development attractor of Involve and Devolve	183
Figure 10.18	Reminder attractor using Tell and Devolve strategies	184
Figure 10.19	Summary of paired periodic attractors	184
Figure 10.20	Typical change management strange attractor	185
Figure 10.21	Complex Adaptive Leadership summary strange attractor	185
Figure 11.1	KISS: Keep, Increase, Start and Stop	192
Figure A.1	The Yin/Yang model of Tao	195
Figure A.2	Emperor Kangxi's throne and 'wu wei'	196
Figure B.1	John Adair's Leadership Model (adapted)	202
Figure B.2	After John Adair's model (adapted) – a possible extension and example of skills	202
Figure B.3	John Adair's Functions of Leadership (1)	203
Figure B.4	John Adair's Functions of Leadership (2) (adapted)	204
Figure B.5	John Adair's Functions of Leadership – polyarchic dynamic	205
Figure B.6	Four + Four overlaid onto John Adair's model	206
Figure C.1	Political definition of polyarchy	212
Figure C.2	Democracy as a bridge between oligarchy and polyarchy	213
Figure C.3	Example of UK according to Dahl's theory	214
Figure C.4	UK example according to interpretation of modern reality	219

Figure C.5	UK possible long term trend	224
Figure C.6	Relevance of Four + Four principles to political polyarchy	226
Figure D.1	LEAD Programme – two development areas and six key competencies	228
Figure D.2	LEAD Programme – 30+ key curricular subjects	228
Figure D.3	LEAD: Programme dynamic	231

Acknowledgements

Many helped in creating the first edition of this book. I would particularly like to thank Professor Jonathan Gosling at the Centre for Leadership, Exeter University for his advice and support when many others had given up; Mike Williams, author of many books on leadership; Professor Julian Birkinshaw at London Business School for his support, advice and friendship; Dr Mark Dennis at Bristol University for his help with matters scientific and mathematic; and Jerry Cowhig at the Institute of Physics Publishing for helping arrange a review.

With regards to the updated Second Edition in paperback, I would like to thank all the associates of Complex Adaptive Leadership Ltd around the world who have played a role in taking the ideas out into business to good effect, and to our multi-national clients and their thousands of managers who have had the courage to take a new approach to leadership, better attuned to the twenty-first century, and apply it to good effect.