This edited text has come into existence through the hard work and dedication of a large number of people. I would therefore like to acknowledge and thank the following for their contribution to this handbook.

First, my thanks to the contributors who authored each of the chapters. Almost without exception, when I asked them if they might contribute, they said 'yes' without any hesitation and submitted their chapters before signing a contract. I thank them for their trust in me to produce something worthy of their efforts. They are truly the most amazing group of colleagues – incredibly knowledgeable, fantastically professional, and so laid back – it has been a joy to work with them.

Second, I would like to thank Novie Johan at the University of Surrey for her help in editing the chapters, especially the citations and references. In a handbook of this kind, it is particularly important that these are as accurate as they can be. Checking this is painstaking and requires hard work. Novie's contribution to this has been invaluable.

Third, my thanks to Professor Abraham Pizam, the series editor, for inviting me to be the editor. Quite simply Abe is a legend in his own lifetime, and I am honoured to be his colleague and friend.

Finally, my thanks to all those at Elsevier who assisted during the final stages of getting the book to print. But most notably thanks to Sally North, who has always supported, encouraged and championed authorship in the hospitality field.
