Summary of Major Sections

Introduction. A short overview to help you better understand and use the book. Starts on Page 1.

Part I: Overview of Personality and Career. Part I is an overview of personality and of personality types. This section also explores the relationship between personality and career. Starts on page 19.

Part II: What's Your Personality Type? Take an Assessment. This part helps you discover your personality type with a short, easy-to-complete assessment. Starts on page 27.

Part III: The Best Jobs Lists: Jobs for Each of the Six Personality Types. The 131 lists in Part III show you the best jobs in terms of high salaries, fast growth, and plentiful job openings for each of the six personality types. Further lists classify the jobs according to education and training required and several other features, such as jobs with the highest percentage of women and of men and jobs with high rates of self-employment. Although there are a lot of lists, they are easy to understand because they have clear titles and are organized into groupings of related lists. Starts on page 37.

Part IV: Descriptions of the 50 Best Jobs for Each Personality Type. This part provides a brief but information-packed description of the 50 jobs from each personality type that met the criteria for this book. Each description contains information on earnings, projected growth, education and training required, job duties, skills, related job titles, related knowledge and courses, and many other details. The descriptions are presented in alphabetical order within each personality type. This structure makes it easy to look up a job that you've identified in a list from Part III and that you want to learn more about. Starts on page 147.

Part V: Appendixes. Appendix A contains a list of occupations in this book and their two-letter personality codes. Appendix B defines the skills and the types of knowledge listed in the job descriptions in Part IV. Appendix C identifies resources for further career exploration. Starts on page 451.
