ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We wish to acknowledge and thank the many colleagues and students we've had during our many years of teaching. As every teacher knows, collegial support and collaboration make teaching all that more creative, and insightful questions and comments from curious, willing students make teaching truly a joy and remind us of the important work we do: teaching people of various cultures to communicate with and appreciate each other.

We also wish to thank the reviewers for their insights and suggestions, many of which were incorporated into this book: Meghan Ackley, University of Texas, Austin, TX; Kimberly Bayer-Olthoff, Hunter College IELI, New York, NY; Michael Climo, Antelope Valley College, Lancaster, CA; Sally Gearhart, Santa Rosa Junior College, Santa Rosa, CA; Kate Johnson, Intensive English Institute, Union County College, Elizabeth, NJ; Laura Shier, Portland State University, Portland, OR; Dina Paglia, Hunter College IELI, New York, NY; Laurette Poulos Simmons, Howard Community College, Columbia, MD; Joanna Vaughn, Language Studies International, Berkeley, CA.

Finally, we are indebted to the people at Pearson Education for their efforts in this project—Laura Le Dréan, whose faith in our work kept us going, to Dorothy E. Zemach, whose tireless efforts made this book unified and coherent; and to all the people in between: Danielle Belfiore, Wendy Campbell, Ann France, Michael Mone, Edith Pullman, and Paula Van Ells. Many, many thanks!
