

A Course in English
Language
Teaching

Penny Ur

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi	5 Teaching vocabulary	60
Introduction	viii	5.1 What is vocabulary?	60
1 English teaching today: what do I need to know?	1	5.2 What students need to learn: aspects of vocabulary knowledge	60
1.1 Teaching priorities	1	5.3 How best to teach vocabulary: some facts and figures	63
1.2 English as an international language	4	5.4 Presenting new vocabulary: selection and presentation	65
1.3 Language-acquisition theories and teaching methodologies	6	5.5 Vocabulary review: consolidating and extending lexical knowledge	69
1.4 Computerized teaching materials	9	5.6 Vocabulary assessment	71
1.5 Motivation	10	6 Teaching grammar	76
2 The lesson	14	6.1 What is grammar?	76
2.1 The lesson: different perspectives	14	6.2 What students need to learn: standards of grammatical acceptability	77
2.2 Functions of the teacher in the English language lesson	16	6.3 How best to teach grammar: explicit and implicit processes	78
2.3 Interaction patterns in the lesson	18	6.4 Presenting grammar: explanations	80
2.4 Lesson preparation	21	6.5 Grammar practice: consolidating and automatizing grammatical knowledge	82
2.5 Written lesson plans	23	6.6 Grammar assessment	84
3 The text	28	7 Error correction	88
3.1 What is a text?	28	7.1 Error correction: for and against	88
3.2 Teaching the text: the goals	29	7.2 Attitudes to error correction	89
3.3 Comprehension of content	30	7.3 Student preferences	91
3.4 Language learning	34	7.4 Oral correction	94
3.5 Discourse analysis	37	7.5 Written correction	96
3.6 Follow-up tasks	39
4 The task	43
4.1 The language-learning task	43
4.2 Task evaluation	45
4.3 Organizing tasks	49
4.4 Interest	51
4.5 Homework	55

8 Teaching listening	101	12.4 Test design (2): testing comprehension and fluency	178
8.1 Goals and problems in teaching listening	101	12.5 Administering tests in class	182
8.2 Listening activity design (1): the text	103	13 The syllabus	185
8.3 Listening activity design (2): the task	106	13.1 What is a syllabus?	185
8.4 Types of activities	108	13.2 Types of language syllabus	186
8.5 Adapting activities	111	13.3 Using an approved syllabus	191
9 Teaching speaking	117	13.4 Evaluating the syllabus	193
9.1 Goals and problems in teaching speaking	117	14 Materials	197
9.2 Speaking activity design (1): topic and task	120	14.1 How necessary is a coursebook?	197
9.3 Speaking activity design (2): sample activities	122	14.2 Coursebook evaluation and selection	199
9.4 Speaking activity design (3): presentations	126	14.3 Adapting course materials	203
9.5 Pronunciation	128	14.4 Supplementary materials (1): paper	210
10 Teaching reading	133	14.5 Supplementary materials (2): digital	212
10.1 What is reading?	133	15 Teaching content	216
10.2 Beginning reading (1): phonemic awareness	136	15.1 Different kinds of content	216
10.3 Beginning reading (2): practical principles	138	15.2 Cultural content	218
10.4 Beginning reading (3): reading tasks	140	15.3 Content and language integrated learning (CLIL)	220
10.5 Fluent reading	143	15.4 Literature as a component of the English course	223
10.6 Extensive reading	146	15.5 Underlying messages	225
11 Teaching writing	150	16 Classroom interaction	228
11.1 What is writing?	150	16.1 Teacher questioning	228
11.2 Formal and informal writing	151	16.2 Group and pair work	233
11.3 Beginning writing: the letters	153	16.3 Individual work	235
11.4 Tasks that promote fluent writing	157	16.4 Blended learning	239
11.5 Process writing	160	17 Classroom discipline	244
11.6 Spelling and punctuation	163	17.1 What is classroom discipline?	244
12 Assessment and testing	167	17.2 What teachers can do to create a disciplined classroom	246
12.1 Functions and types of assessment	167
12.2 Giving a grade	170
12.3 Test design (1): testing accuracy	173

17.3	Dealing with discipline problems	248	20 Teacher development	284
17.4	Discipline problems: episodes	251	20.1	The first year of teaching 284
18 Learner differences (1): age		256	20.2	Lesson observation 285
18.1	Differences between younger and older learners	256	20.3	Ongoing development 289
18.2	Teaching young learners	258	20.4	Development through reading and further study 292
18.3	Teaching adolescents	264	20.5	Further development: your own contribution 294
18.4	Teaching adults	268	Glossary	298
19 Learner differences (2): teaching heterogeneous (mixed) classes		272	Bibliography	301
19.1	Differences between individual students in the heterogeneous class	272	Index	309
19.2	Problems and advantages	274
19.3	Practical principles	276
19.4	Teaching high and low achievers	281		