About the Authors

Joseph F. Hair is Professor of Marketing and the Cleverdon Chair of Business at the University of South Alabama, and Director of the DBA degree program in the Mitchell College of Business. He formerly held the Copeland Endowed Chair of Entrepreneurship at Louisiana State University. He has published more than 60 books, including market leaders Multivariate Data Analysis, 7th edition, Prentice Hall, 2010, which has been cited more than 125,000 times; Marketing Research, 4th edition, McGraw-Hill/Irwin, 2009; Principles of Marketing, 12th edition, Thomson Learning, 2012, used at over 500 universities globally; A Primer in Partial Least Squared Structural Equation Modeling (PLS-SEM), 2nd edition, Sage, 2017; and Essentials of Business Research Methods, 3rd edition, Taylor & Francis, 2016. In addition to publishing numerous referred manuscripts in academic journals such as Journal of Marketing Research, Journal of Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Business/Chicago, Journal of Advertising Research, and Journal of Retailing, he has presented executive education and management training programs for numerous companies, has been retained as consultant and expert witness for a wide variety of firms, and is frequently an invited speaker on research methods and multivariate analysis. He is a Distinguished Fellow of the Academy of Marketing Science, the Society for Marketing Advances (SMA), and has served as president of the Academy of Marketing Sciences, the SMA, the Southern Marketing Association, the Association for Healthcare Research, the Southwestern Marketing Association, and the American Institute for Decision Sciences, Southeast Section. Professor Hair was recognized by the Academy of Marketing Science with its Outstanding Marketing Teaching Excellence Award, and the Louisiana State University Entrepreneurship Institute under his leadership was recognized nationally by Entrepreneurship Magazine as one of the top 12 programs in the United States.

Mary W. Celsi is a Professor of Marketing at California State University, Long Beach. She has published research in several top journals, including Journal of Marketing, Journal of Consumer Research, Journal of Retailing, California Management Review, and Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science. She has expertise in qualitative and quantitative research methods. Her publications span a wide range of interests, from internal marketing to digital marketing and consumer culture theory. Her research has been cited more than 5,000 times in scholarly publications.

David J. Ortinau is Professor of Marketing at the University of South Florida (USF). His Ph.D. in Marketing is from Louisiana State University. He began his teaching career at Illinois State University and after completing his degree moved to USF in Tampa. Dr. Ortinau continues to be recognized for both outstanding research and excellence in teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, and doctorate levels. His research interests range from research methodologies and scale measurement development, attitude formation, and perceptual differences in retailing and services marketing environments to interactive electronic marketing technologies and their impact on information research problems.

He consults for a variety of corporations and small businesses, with specialties in customer satisfaction, service quality, service value, retail loyalty, and imagery. Dr. Ortinau has presented numerous papers at national and international academic conferences. He continues to make scholarly contributions in such prestigious publications as the Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Retailing, Journal of Business Research, Journal of Marketing Theory and Practice, Journal of Healthcare Marketing, Journal of Services Marketing, Journal of Marketing Education, and others. He is a co-author of marketing research textbooks titled Marketing Research: In a Digital Information Environment, 4e (2009) as well as guest co-editor of several JBR Special Issues on Retailing. He is an editorial board member for JAMS, JBR, JGSMS, and JMTP as well as an Ad Hoc reviewer for several other journals. He has multiple “Outstanding Editorial Reviewer” Awards from JAMS, JBR, and JMTP, and recently served as the JBR co-associate editor of Marketing and is a member of JMTP Senior Advisory Board. Professor Ortinau remains an active leader in the Marketing Discipline. He has held many leadership positions in the Society for Marketing Advances (SMA), including President; Founder and Chairman of Board of the SMA Foundation; and is a 2001 SMA Fellow. He has been chair of the SMA Doctoral Consortiums in New Orleans, Orlando, and Atlanta. Dr. Ortinau has been an active member of the Academy of Marketing Science (AMS) since the early 1980s, serving AMS in a wide variety of positions such as 2004 AMS Conference Program co-chair, AMS Doctoral Colloquium, Meet the Journal Editorial Reviewers, and special sessions on Research Methods as well as How to Publish Journal Articles. Recently, Dr. Ortinau served as the Program Co-chair of the 2016 AMS World Marketing Congress in Paris, France and became a member of AMS Board of Governors.

Robert P. Bush is a Professor of Marketing, and Associate Dean of the Archie W. Dunham College of Business, Houston Baptist University. He formerly held the Alumni and Friends Endowed Chair in Business at Louisiana State University at Alexandria. Throughout his academic career, he has served as reviewer and special editor for several major Marketing Journals. He has authored, edited, or coauthored six textbooks, published over 25 articles in leading Marketing Journals, and has over 30 publications in national and international proceedings.
